AISD CELEBRATES DAY OF SERVICE IN LIEU OF CONVOCATION

ARLINGTON, Texas, Aug. 17, 2016 – The Arlington ISD will forego the traditional beginning of the year convocation event for the second year in a row and instead celebrate its teachers and their commitment to students with the AISD Day of Service from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Aug. 18.

Non-campus employees for the district, which includes those working in finance, curriculum, human resources, educational support services and more, will help teachers and campus staff with anything from classroom set up and distributing textbooks to laminating and creating bulletin boards during the Day of Service. AISD teachers and staff are working hard to get their classrooms and campuses ready for the start of school on Aug. 22.

“It’s always a busy time to get classrooms ready for the start of a new school year, so we created the AISD Day of Service to provide extra support for our teachers and staff,” AISD Superintendent Dr. Marcelo Cavazos said. “Our administration employees are excited to spend time in classrooms and on campuses to connect with teachers for the benefit of our students again this year.”

AISD Superintendent Dr. Marcelo Cavazos will volunteer his time at West Elementary, 2911 Kingswood Blvd., in Grand Prairie. Media that would like to attend the AISD Day of Service should contact Director of Communications Leslie Johnston at 817-368-0527.
